“ I was very sad to hear that Rochelle had passed away, but also glad to remember a life well lived.

Rochelle was short in stature but extremely tall in spunk and energy. She continued to enjoy life well into her 90's - I even remember one newspaper photos just a few years ago, which showed Rochelle at a gala event for a department store in town. Rochelle also loved the Symphony and Operas, and attended many performances

Rochelle was also a great link to my father Martin's family and its history. She grew up with both Martin and Aaron Rosen - and was a repository of interesting stories about the "early days", such as how the family would all work together to deliver holiday turkeys to customers of my grandfather Samuel's fish and poultry store. Rochelle also blessed me with a gift of several well-preserved photos of my dad and his family at a young age.

The last time I saw her, in January of this year, Rochelle shared with Alice and me some fantastic photo albums from the 1930's and 40's which her older sister Fran had put together. Fran was obviously very meticulous (as confirmed by Rochelle) since these albums had EACH photo labeled with beautiful printing. The photos themselves were pristine as well, somehow they hadn't faded over the decades.

I'll miss Rochelle, but her memory lives on in the stories and the photos.
