“ In memory of Tsila

Tsila our dearest friend

Life is full of surprises that are not always pleasant.

After years of waking up every morning with a smile on your face, a heavy black cloud began to hover over your life.

And, as in everything else you did, you fought, almost, until the last moment like a true warrior.

For a long time, despite the great suffering, you continued to smile, be happy and give us the feeling that everything will be fine and life is still beautiful.

Unfortunately, life is not fair.

We have already learned that.

Or, maybe they are actually fair, because after all, you had beautiful and challenging years before the disease overwhelmed you.

You left us days full of endless love and many memories that will never be erased and will always stay with us forever.

We miss you very much.

I was Paul's roommate in Haifa when the moving love story of Paul and Tsila took shape. Paul had the ideal job, but Tsila was his boss for whom he had romantic feelings. She gave him the choice to give up his job or his romantic pursuits. It cost him his job, but Paul chose wisely for they had a wonderful life together, wonderful children together and can't fathom how to go on without Tsila. Our thoughts are with you in these dark days.

*May Tsila's memory be for a blessing.

“ I am so saddened to hear of Tsila’s passing. She and Paul were so kind and hospitable to us for years when we were neighbors in Montgomery, Tsila had the kindest heart, always a warm, welcoming smile. She dearly loved her children and was a devoted professor. I will always remember the friendly, fun New Year’s Eve parties she hosted. Rest in peace, dear Tsila. Our world is a better place because of you. My deepest condolences and love to Pal, Sara and Mikey

“ I have fond memories of meeting Tsila after moving to Cincinnati and joining Temple Shalom. She was one of the people I knew in Cincinnati whom I could speak with in Hebrew. We had many chats in Hebrew and about Israel. Tsila was special and I'll always hold a place for her in my heart.

My thoughts are with Sara, Michael, and Paul and their family.

Tsila was the definition of an open heart. We always celebrated the holidays together as a family and she taught us so many things by living her Jewishness. It was natural for her and my children were inspired by her example. I will miss her everyday and I will always take her with me wherever I go. Vickie, David, Saul and Marko Hananel

I had the pleasure of working with Tsila at The College of Mount St Joseph. She was a well loved professor and friend. We enjoyed lunches together at Brontë Bistro after we both retired. Marion Albertz

I am very sorry to learn of Tsila's passing. I enjoyed seeing you and your family on various occasions over the years, and I sadly noted her declining health in recent times.
